DARK HEAVEN APOCALYPSE

Greetings to one and all!

Casket Works number 1 represents a milestone for all of us here at Reaper in that it is the first catalog to contain additional and new game material for Dark Heaven Apocalypse. The first section is for errata and clarifications. The second section is for new information. As always, if you have any questions comments or suggestions for the game please write us or email us at reapergame@AOL.com.

Section One

Affiliation Runes:

Some clarification is in order here since a change in them was made but not fully documented just before printing. First, the three symbols are:

	Corruption	--	May only work with other Corruption models or Neutrality models
	Neutral	--	May work with any model
	Virtue	--	May only work with other Virtue models or Neutrality models

The last minute change in the rules was that each Country, Organization, Creature and Notable will now possess only one type of rune instead of multiple types.

Affiliation Runes primarily apply to the construction of World style armies, either national or mercenary, or as a limitation within a scenario that you create. For example, the Country of Breonne possesses a rune of Virtue. This means that when constructing this army a player may choose to use either or both of the Notables 'Diva the Blessed', who possesses a rune of Virtue, or 'Tara the Silent', who possesses a rune of Neutrality. A player could not use the Notable 'Domur' in their Breonne army since that character possess a rune of Corruption.

In the case of a World army that is lead or guided by a rune of Neutrality, such as a Mercenary army, the runes of Corruption OR Virtue may serve in it, but not both.

General Errata:

Page 89 - - Monique Denoir reads as stock number 02235. It should read as 02234.
Page 134 - - Number 02148 and number 02081 stat boxes should be:

Section Two

Aserlis the Liche Lord 2269

Affiliation Rune:

Aserlis was at one time a trusted aide and companion to the legendary arch-mage Cauve. During the Skoli Purge in 001 NA, Aserlis betrayed Cauve and fought on the side of the skoli. The skoli were defeated, but Aserlis escaped into the Besiac wastes. There he discovered necromancy and eventually transformed himself into a liche. For decades he lived in the ruins, gathering his power.

In 222 NA, Aserlis created a large army of skeletons from the Besiac Wastelands and marched into Jalahandra. The unprepared army of Jalahandra was pushed back, and Aserlis added their fallen ranks into his own. He then pushed north into Taltos, where he swept the warlords aside with ease. At the border of Tirithilla, however, the liche lord was defeated by the mages Celedril of Tirithilla and Bourran of Taltos. After the liche fell, his skeletal horde fell into disarray and was easily defeated. Aserlis' body was placed in a bronze casket that was enchanted to bind his magical energies. This casket was then sunk beneath the waters of Lake Watamba, now known as Blackwater Lake. Aserlis, however, had gained a cult following during his conquests, and even after his defeat it continued to thrive in southeastern Adon. This cult, the Children of Aserlis, has relentlessly sought their master's remains. In 985, their divinations finally bore fruit. Aserlis' body was recovered and returned to his crypt-palace beneath the Besiac Wastes. The liche-lord is now more powerful than ever and prepares to march upon the lands of the living. Aserlis wears the Crown of Teeth and wields the Staff of S'kara, a skoli artifact.

Minotaurs: 2263

Affiliation Rune: ★

Minotaurs are powerful and intelligent monsters that have the body of a man and the head of a bull. They are usually found singly, but may band together in small groups to fight alongside an army. A minotaur's favorite weapon is the battle axe, but they may fight by goring opponents with their mighty horns and biting with their sharp teeth. Some rare minotaur specimens, known as greater minotaurs, have the lower body and head of a bull with the torso of a man. These minotaurs are stronger and more fierce than regular minotaurs.

Elementals

Elementals are magical beings conjured from the very elements themselves. This conjuring is a difficult task, and only the most learned of wizards know how to do so. Elementals are amongst the strongest of monsters on any given battlefield. The most typical of elemental kind are earth, air, fire and water.

Earth Elementals: 2250

Affiliation Rune: ★

Earth Elementals usually take a man-like shape formed from whatever earth is nearby. Thus, elementals may be formed of sand, mud, clay, rock or a mixture of these. Their mighty fists have been known to pound men into pulp and reduce stone walls to rubble.

Fire Elementals: 2251

Affiliation Rune: ★

Fire Elementals often appear as towering sheets of flames that change color from blue to green to white. As a fire elemental sweeps across a battlefield, everything in its wake is immolated, including living creatures. Fire elementals sometimes may shoot long goutts of flame, incinerating anything in the way.

Air Elementals: 2252

Affiliation Rune: ★

Air Elementals usually take on the shape of a whirlwind or a small tornado, but may appear as a man shaped form of twisting wind. Air elementals sometimes pick up small items or debris that lie in their paths as they twist across the battlefield. Any man sized beings in the path of an enraged air elemental may be picked up as well and tossed about like a rag doll, usually with fatal consequences.

Water Elementals: 2253

Affiliation Rune:

Water Elementals usually take the form of a giant wave of water that rushes across the battlefield, smashing into enemy ranks. These elementals are typically composed of either salt or fresh water, although this makes no noticeable difference on the battlefield. Water elementals may completely engulf human sized troops, effectively drowning them.

REAPER OF THE APOCALYPSE "FAMINE" ON HIS UNDEAD HORSE

BY RICHARD KERR

The vampire lord of Weissburg Emile van Storme sat upon his throne in deep thought. His eyes were shut, and his mood was sour. He had been sitting there for several hours, and the blood in his goblet had long grown cold. His servants were afraid to approach him, for he was known to fly into violent rages at the slightest provocation. One servant, however dared to approach. "M'lord?" the servant meekly asked as he crept forward holding out a letter to his master. "It is a message from the Overlord." Van Storme took the letter from the boy and quickly read it. "So, the Reapers have arrived," he said out loud. "Thus begins the Apocalypse..."

With a hard tug, King Harbromm Axehelm pulled his battle axe free from the goblin chieftain that he had just slain. Around him laid the bodies of both dwarf and goblin alike, but victory belonged to the dwarves on this day. "Foul goblins!" he muttered "Yer head will do nicely atop a pole back at Kargmarr"

The battle was over. A black orc warlord bent over the body of a fallen dwarven captain, and with one swift slice of his knife, took the dwarf's scalp. He affixed it to a thong on his belt, already strung with other dwarven scalps. The black orc then surveyed the battlefield that was strewn with dead bodies of both orcs and dwarves. "You fought well, dwarf," the orc growled, "but today, victory belongs to the orcs!"

*Where nature's laws threatened the weary;
When food, water even air itself ran low.
It took just a command, a word, a smile,
From the General to light the way.
He was comfort, stern courage, compassion
To our sires as he led them from the fires
That grew and fed on those they left behind*
